10 MUST-SEE ART SHOWS OPENING THIS WEEK

by Gary Pini

On October 16th, 6 to 8 p.m., Joshua Liner Gallery (540 West 28th Street) opens two new shows: “Qualia” by Tiffany Bozic and “Likelihood of Confusion” by Alfred Steiner. For the former, Bozic “explores the notion of how we perceive information and experience the world around us” and the latter, Steiner “reflects on the pervasive nature of media and advertising.” (Our apologies to both for the overly-simplified descriptions.) Both shows are on view until November 15.
